

Lifelong Learning

The artifacts included expand on my Bachelor of Education Elementary (with Distinction) and Masters of Education in Curriculum Studies. I include these as they provide an example of the standard I hold myself to as well as the breadth and frequency that I engage in professional development.

Included in this collection of artifacts are:

CELTA (Certificate in English Language Teaching to Adults)

IDI (Intercultural Development Inventory) reflective tool which has been used on campus with faculty, students and staff. After my certification, two others also became administrators.

APAR demonstrating the breadth and frequency that I have engaged in professional development. Other APARS are available if you would like to see the continued momentum.

Certificate in Intercultural Communication UBC - a 5 course program delivered face to face, blended and 100% online. This was completed over a 2 year period. The final course: Train the Trainer reinforced androgogy, transformative learning and intercultural communication theory.

Dear Emma

We are pleased to inform you that you have been recommended for a Pass 'B' grade on the CELTA program.

The tutors felt that during the course you demonstrated classroom teaching skills higher than the level required in order to pass.

We will be sending out your Cambridge CELTA Certificate as soon as we receive it, together with your Final Report from the YMCA.

Please let us know if there is anything further we can help you with.

Regards and best wishes for the future,
